

I support RM-10781 which retains the Morse Code requirement for amateur radio licensing. Morse Code can be an effective communications mode in severe conditions and should not be lost. The current requirement of 5 wpm is within the grasp of most applicants. If there are physical/mental handicaps that prevent this attainment, then perhaps a provisional license for these special cases could be developed so that all applicants can be included. -Bernie Miller